Carbon Offset Project Development

First Climate Group is a global leader in carbon asset management. A pioneer in the international carbon markets, we bring experience and expertise to the steadily growing US carbon markets. In addition to our project management expertise, First Climate LLC, located in Washington, DC and San Francisco, is actively engaged in regional and national US climate policy discussions, advising our clients on how policy developments affect their businesses.

Our portfolio consists of high quality offsets that are third-party audited and issued under internationally accepted standards. Experts in both the creation and commercialization of carbon credits, we offer unique and comprehensive carbon management solutions tailored to your needs.

Carbon Offset Sales From Our Global Portfolio

Our portfolio consists of premium offsets sourced globally through our extensive network of project development partners. First Climate has ten years of experience in purchasing and developing carbon reduction projects and is uniquely positioned to grow and monitor our portfolio with carbon experts in 14 offices on five continents. As both a large scale originator and wholesaler, we have access to the most successful and environmentally credible emission reduction projects worldwide. This positioning enables us to provide clients with a steady stream of superior, diverse and strategically located offsets that offer multiple environmental and community benefits. We design customized emission reduction solutions to meet individual client needs using the following standards:

- The Gold Standard (GS)
- California Climate Action Registry (CCAR)
- Voluntary Carbon Standard (VCS)
- VER+
- Social Carbon Methodology
- Climate Community and Biodiversity Standard (CCBS)

Climate Neutral Services

Climate Neutral Services

First Climate provides professional support and carbon management expertise to a wide range of companies in the voluntary carbon market. Our US team offers educated advisory services to help our clients navigate the US climate policy landscape and provides customized solutions focused on enabling your business to thrive while addressing both the risks and opportunities posed by climate change. Whether you have already calculated your company's carbon footprint or are just beginning to develop your carbon management strategy, First Climate will partner with you to meet all of your corporate environmental goals.

Calculate Your Emissions

Identifying and quantifying your greenhouse gas emissions is the first step towards creating an effective carbon management plan. Determining the carbon footprint of a product or your entire business can be a challenging exercise and requires the establishment of accurate organizational boundaries. First Climate can support you in assessing your emissions as well as in designing a greenhouse gas inventory and accounting system to track and monitor those emissions on an ongoing basis.

Develop Your Climate Strategy

Addressing climate change is a long-term challenge. Assessing climate-related risks and opportunities to your business and defining measurable goals and programs to meet them are the cornerstone of a holistic and robust climate strategy. First Climate can support you in developing and optimizing a climate strategy which will meet your environmental targets while contributing to your overall business objectives.

Reduce the Avoidable Emissions

On the basis of an accurate carbon footprint or lifecycle analysis, First Climate can support you in developing a corporate greenhouse gas management system. Our experts identify measures to optimize your use of energy and reduce avoidable emissions. With our technical partners, First Climate can help your company engage in the low-carbon economy.

Offset the Unavoidable Emissions

First Climate maintains a broad portfolio of high quality emission reduction projects producing a steady supply of premium carbon offsets. Our experts can help you in identifying the projects which will best align with your corporate carbon management goals.

Projects in First Climate's portfolio meet internationally accepted standards that go above and beyond climate protection. These projects contribute considerably to the overall sustainable development of the region, benefit the local economy and improve environmental conditions.

Communicate Your Engagement

First Climate can support your marketing efforts to communicate your environmental commitment to your stakeholders. We design communication tools that are interactive and will effectively substantiate your stakeholder communication in view of an increasing awareness of the need for businesses to address climate change risks and opportunities. Our clients take advantage of individual consulting and support services to develop marketing material and internet solutions to promote their climate change initiatives. With our communications experts, you can get the message across to the people that matter most to you.
