THIS IS My HORSE

He's taught me lessons like how to meet a horse in the middle, and how when you believe in a horse, he does his best for you. Sure, you have to give in a little bit to his quirky personality, but he tries for me. I'd much rather have a horse that does it their own way, but gives you what he has, than a horse that is super talented, but always finds a way to knock a jump down. He's straight, and aside from the ring, I just really like him. He's probably the last horse I'll ride in the championships that my dad trained, so he's special to me in that way, too.
